

New Server - Please Report Issues

Contributed by Joel
Monday, 22 January 2007

Well, you probably missed the server move announcement, since it didn't manage to make the move in our backups ;) but nevermind, because the move is over now.

The great news is that the new server is significantly more powerful than the old one, and we've been able to bring the documentation back online as well ... it looks like everything is back up and working, but we may still have some issues with registration or other functions which require emailing, so please have patience, and don't hesitate to let us know if you have a problem (email Jaykul at our dot-org domain).